"France is fortunate to have extremely varied terroirs. This map shows you some of the various food specialties which make the culinary reputation of France and that we are happy to offer: its many cheeses (the Norman Camembert, the Bleu d'Auvergne, Roquefort, Reblochon...), its delicious seafood (caviar, oysters, lobster, sole, mussels...), its charcuterie and meat (Bayonne ham, Strasbourg sausages, cooked and cured ham), its mushrooms and truffles and many other condiments that help our talented chefs, and home chefs in the creation of their amazing dishes." 6

VALENTINE'S DAY

Dall'Ava Bakery is the latest addition to the Dall'Ava group. Almost by chance, in the first months of 2012, a series of pleasant coincidences convinced us to embark on a new journey into the world of baked goods.

Curiosity, the desire to "save" a historic bakery from certain closure and the meeting with one of the best pastry chefs in the area, convinced us to start with a few clear objectives: to give an international breath to the traditional sweets of this valley and also to produce panettone, doves and breadsticks.

The products are born from the passion for good things and the wise ability to use mother yeast: a living ingredient, which allows to obtain soft and soft doughs, with delicate hints that conquer the most demanding palates.

In 1988, they created the world's first "Prosciutteria", a place where ham plays the main role during the meal.

In the process, father and son developed the DOK Dall'Ava pasta factory as well as the Dall'Ava Bakery. They also develop the first Prosciutto school where everyone can learn to refine a ham, to cut it and of course, to taste it. Tireless, in 2005, they began building a ham factory that wanted to be the most avant-garde in the world, with the possibility of creating a natural climate in particular.

At the Dall'Avas, everything is dedicated to quality products and the pleasure of sharing their passion. The priority is not to produce more but to constantly offer higher quality.

sugar.

Moreover, Cluizel chocolates are guaranteed without soy and without added flavours.

SINGLE PLANTATION BEANS

Going further than anyone else, the Manufacture Cluizel produces single estate chocolates. These products of exception capture the strong and specific aromatic qualities of each plantation and showcases the work of each of these talented growers.

The Manufacture Cluizel provides a unique quality commitment that certifies the fine selection of raw materials and appears on every single product.

This "Noble Ingredients" certification provides professionals with the guarantee that product recipes only include pure cocoa butter, bourbon vanilla pods and
